

Did you hear about how our coloured pencils ran away?
We were shocked to find that one day they were gone...POOF!
All that was left was a letter...

Dear Sycamore Class,

It's your colours here. We've decided to take a break as we are sick and tired of the way you have been treating us this year. To use the word careless would be a HUGE understatement. Try dreadful, sloppy and irresponsible! So far this year, some of our greatest friends have been lost to your thoughtless ways. You take us out of the pot and happily use us to colour in your fire engines, sea creatures and farm animals and then as soon as it's play time you toss us back into the pot without a second thought. And some of the pencils haven't even been sharpened properly...

Don't worry, we've since owned up to our bad choices and explained our apology in a letter back to our colours...and they returned! Just in time for the Queen's Platinum Jubilee! I'm not sure how we would have completed our Pop Art inspired stamps without them.

Super Me, Super You!

Building the HMS Victory

Superheroes don't just wear capes...we build boats too!

"I added in extra layers of tape so the boat would be waterproof...it worked!"

After learning about Nelson, we were inspired to learn what makes a good ship for ourselves. We built and test our own model HMS Victory.

He died in the Atlantic ocean.
